Hotel and leisure facilities need to know that their fire systems are trouble free and do not affect their facilities or guests.

Although water based fire protection has been the standard for generations, the challenge has been to maximise protection whilst minimising water damage. Sprinkler systems are well established within the hotel and leisure sector as traditional means of protection, and low pressure water mist systems are gaining popularity as effective fire suppression performance with reduced clean-up if discharged so that downtime is kept to a minimum and customers are not inconvenienced. Working with your project designers, our team can help to maximise space without impacting the building integrity.

Having worked within hotel, leisure and residential sector for a number of years, Ultra Surefire have been providing specialist solutions to protect risks in public areas, bedrooms, restaurants, kitchens and support offices.

Our LPS approval means that you can be confident that our systems meet and exceed current regulations. All systems are designed and installed to the latest codes of practice applicable to the building design and customer requirements.

From nightclubs and stadiums to large hotel chains and boutique hotels, our Hotel and Leisure project management team work around the clock to advise, design, install and commission fire protection systems that meet your budget and requirements.
